

Access for Every Reader: How Sora Serves Every Student

Kira Brennan, Lead Librarian

@mrskirabrennan

Melanie Wood, Highcroft Ridge Librarian

@melanie_in_the_library

@highcroftridge_library

Raffle Information Here

Highcroft Ridge Elementary

Highcroft Ridge Elementary

Accessibility

EBooks

Audiobooks

Large Print

Novels in Verse

Graphic Novels

Picture Books

For Every Reader

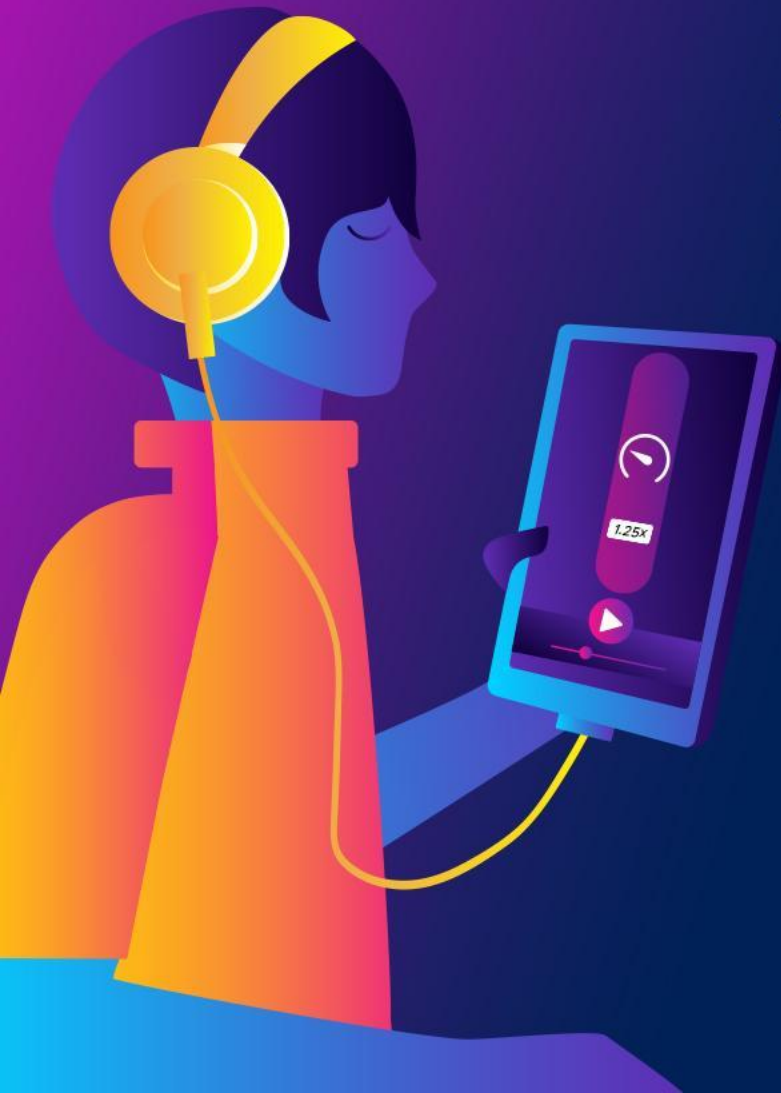

Listening counts as reading!
Try an audiobook.

Audiobooks

- Build crucial listening skills for children
- Help reduce negative thinking
- Have the same benefits as reading
- Help relax our eyes
- Audiobooks positively impact sleep
- Improve time management
- Help build literacy skills
- Immerse you in another world

For Every Reader

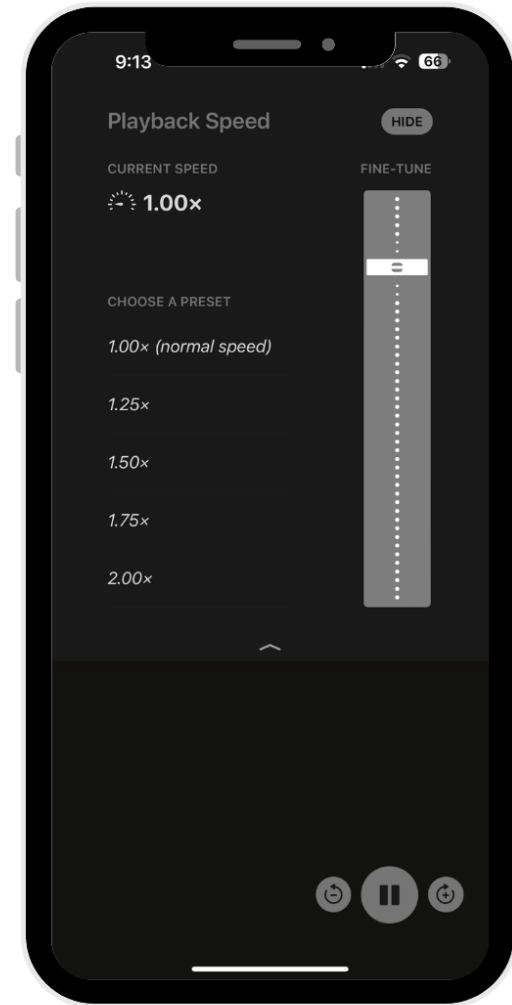

You can adjust the narration speed and take notes in audiobooks.

Sora

The student reading app

For Every Reader

Read and listen with Read-Along ebooks.

Highlighted text appears while the narrator reads!

Sora

The student reading app

Read Alongs

Remember, Sign Up for the Raffle!

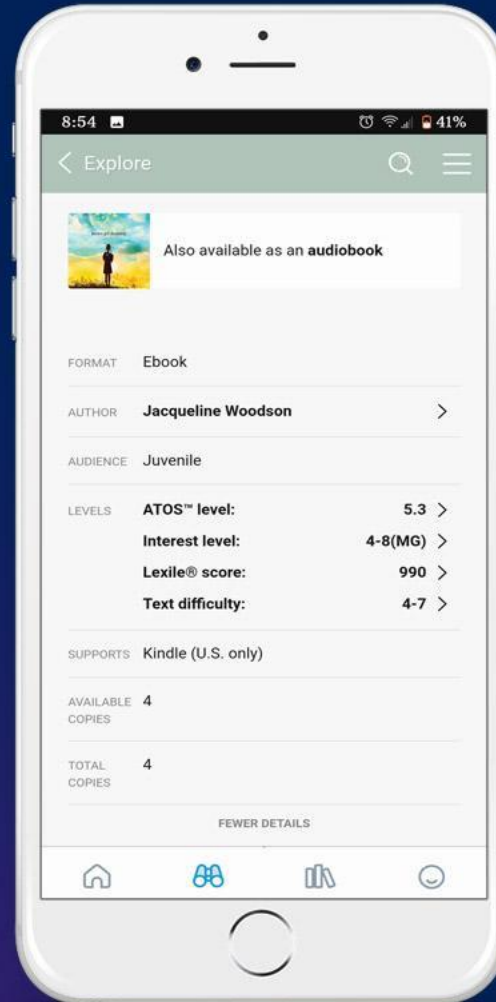

For Every Reader

In Sora, you can search by interest level, ATOS™ level, Lexile® score, and text difficulty.

Sora

The student reading app

eBooks

For Every Reader

Sora's interface is available in 10 languages!

HOLA

SALAAM

HELLO

GUTEN
TAG

Hi

NI HAO

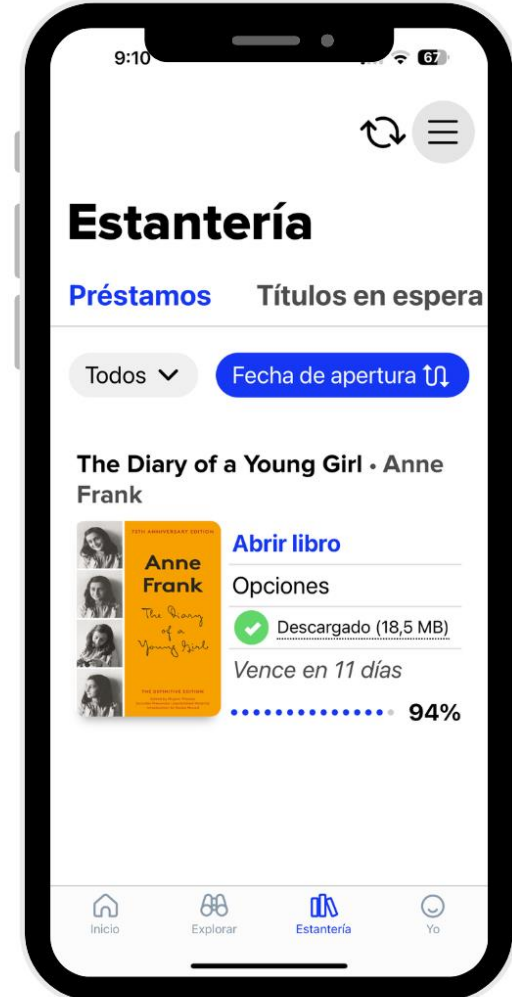

SALUT

BONJOUR

Sora

The student reading app

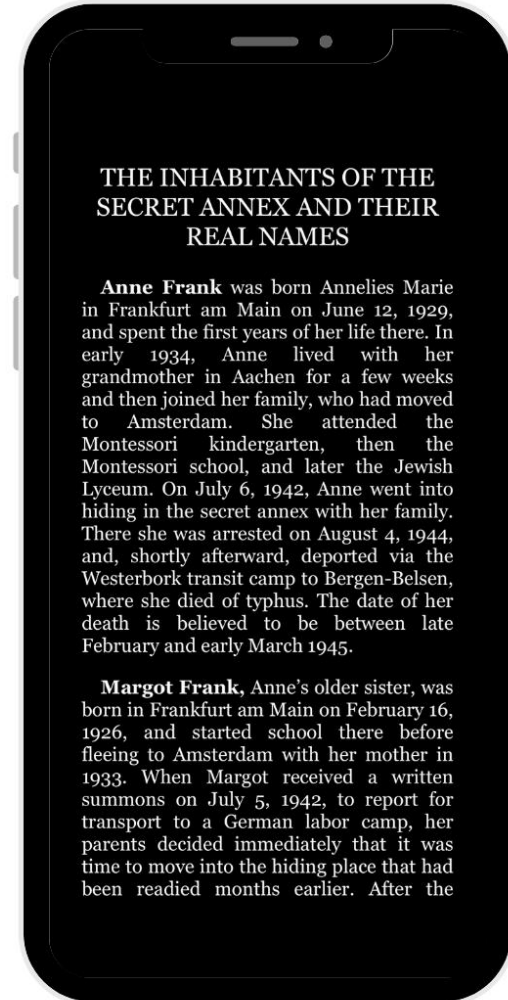

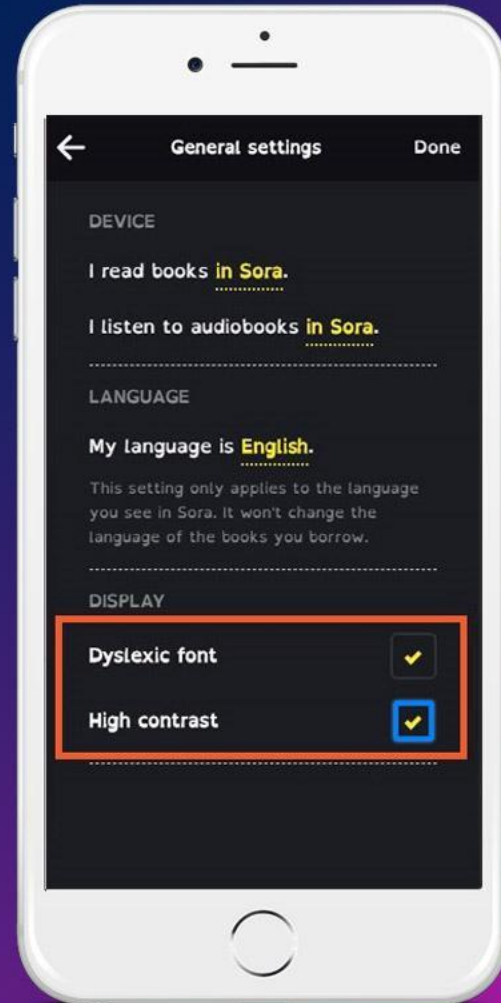

For Every Reader

Sora's high contrast setting can improve readability and app navigation.

Sora

The student reading app

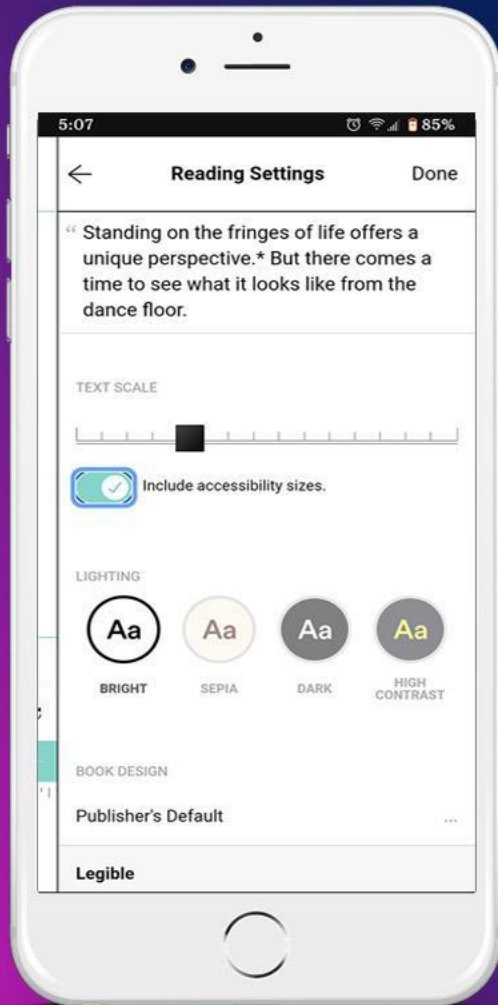

THE INHABITANTS OF THE SECRET ANNEX AND THEIR REAL NAMES

Anne Frank was born Annelies Marie in Frankfurt am Main on June 12, 1929, and spent the first years of her life there. In early 1934, Anne lived with her grandmother in Aachen for a few weeks and then joined her family, who had moved to Amsterdam. She attended the Montessori kindergarten, then the Montessori school, and later the Jewish Lyceum. On July 6, 1942, Anne went into hiding in the secret annex with her family. There she was arrested on August 4, 1944, and, shortly afterward, deported via the Westerbork transit camp to Bergen-Belsen, where she died of typhus. The date of her death is believed to be between late February and early March 1945.

Margot Frank, Anne's older sister, was born in Frankfurt am Main on February 16, 1926, and started school there before fleeing to Amsterdam with her mother in 1933. When Margot received a written summons on July 5, 1942, to report for transport to a German labor camp, her parents decided immediately that it was time to move into the hiding place that had been readied months earlier. After the

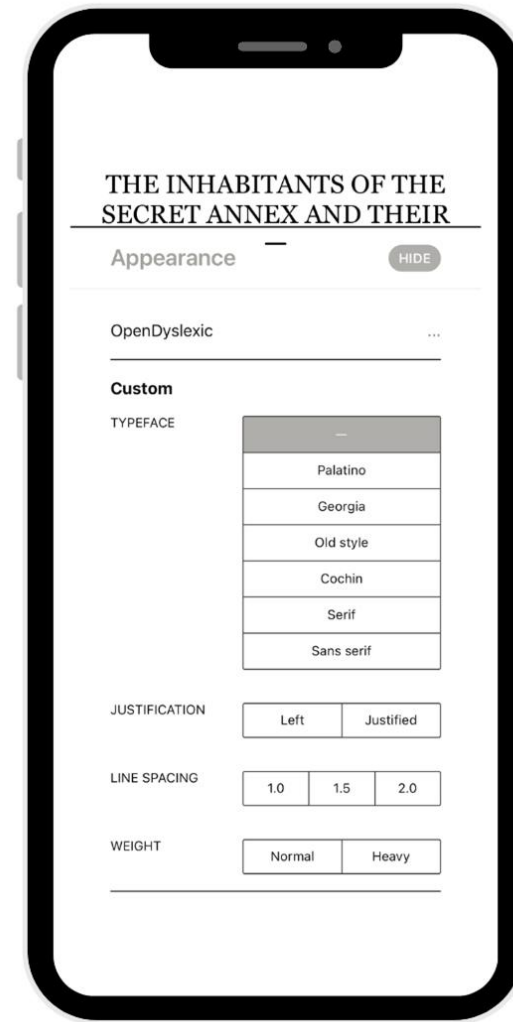

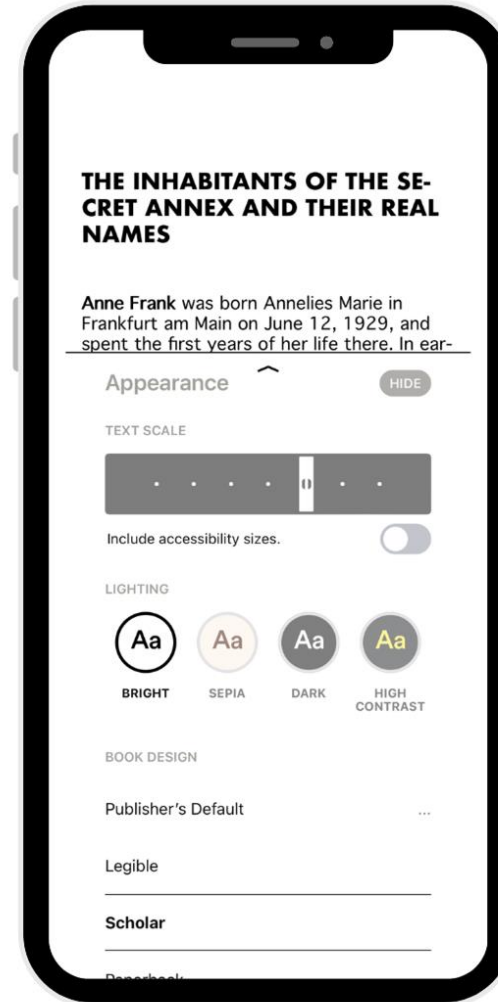

For Every Reader

Read ebooks your way!
Customize an ebook's font,
text size, lighting & more!

The student reading app

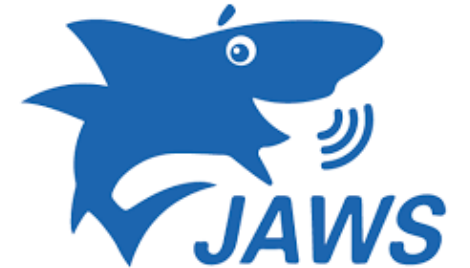

For Every Reader

Sora supports screen readers.

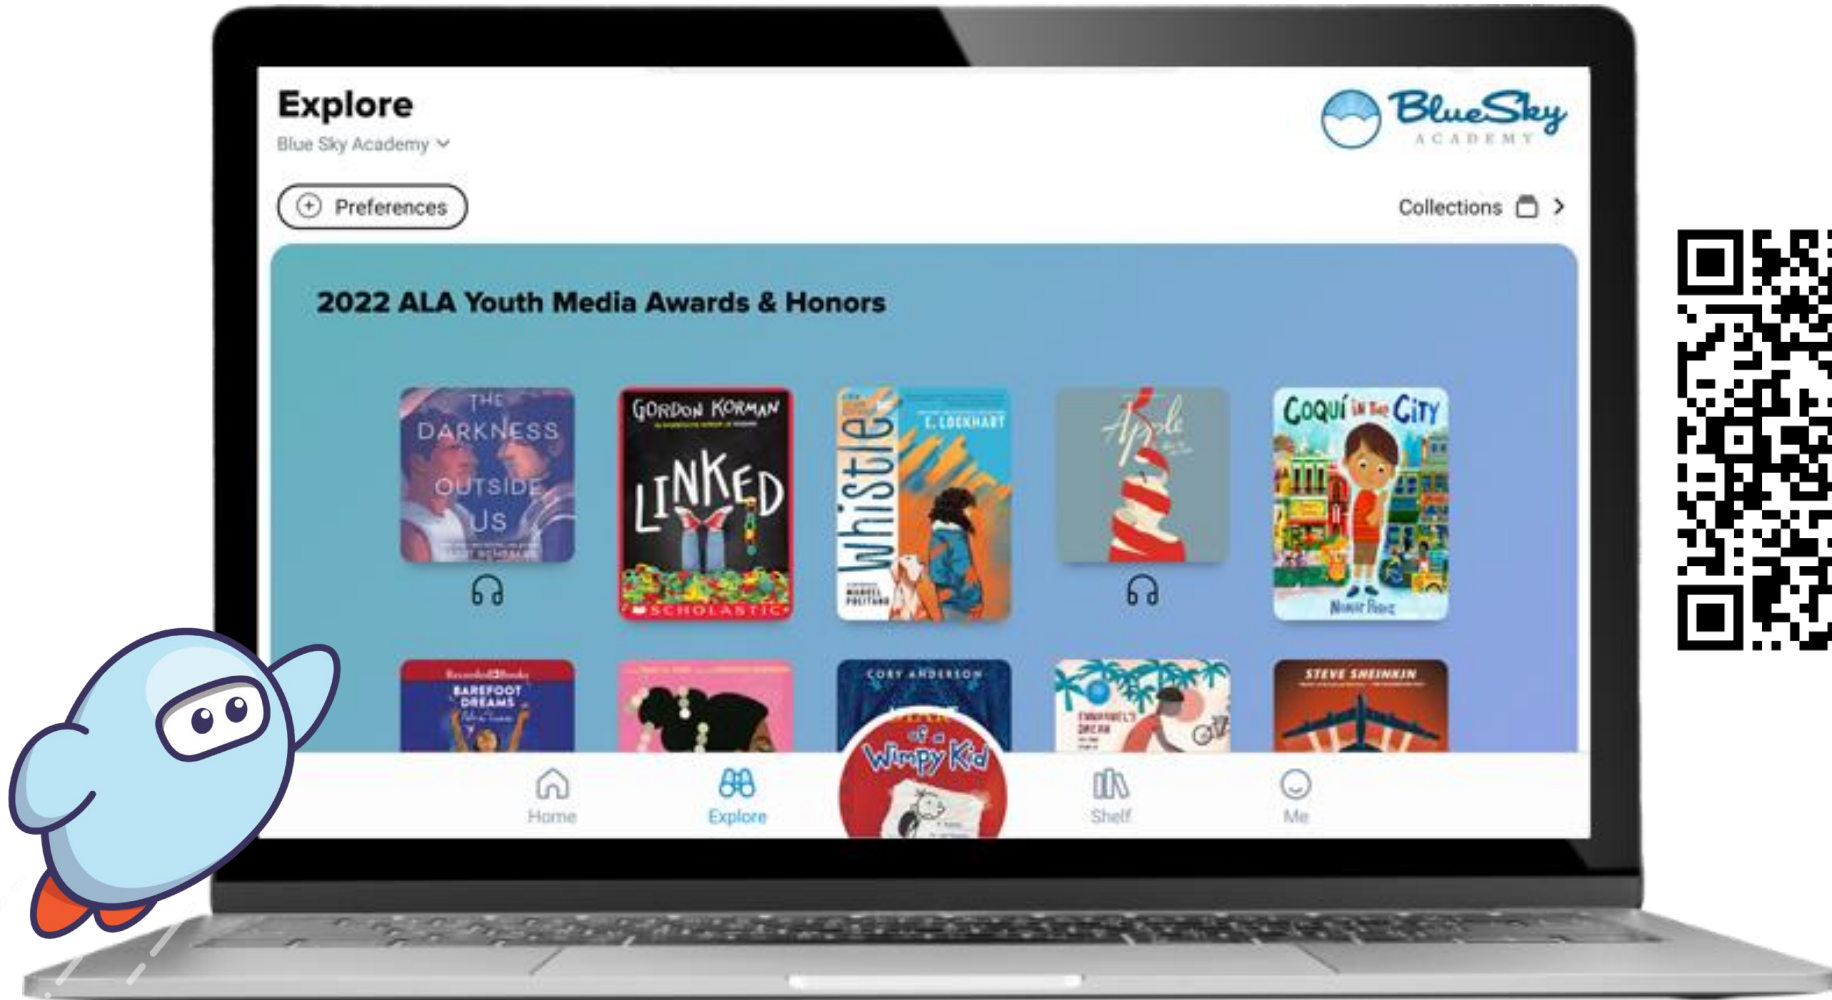

Sora

The student reading app

Live Demonstration

Resources

Learn more:

- Meet Sora - <https://www.overdrive.com/apps/sora>.
- Sora Help - help.soraapp.com.
- Resource Center - resources.overdrive.com.

