

YOUR PICTURE IS WORTH A THOUSAND WORDS Sora

(RE)TELLING THE TALE

Have you ever tried to get a friend or family member to read something you really loved but you can't quite explain why they should give it a try? Instead of using your words...try using your pictures!

Emoji-me

1. Pick three chapters from a book in Sora – consider one with lots of action, one with lots of dialogue, and one with lots of plot development.
2. Using a device with an emoji keyboard*, go to the end of the chapter, HIGHLIGHT the last word and make a note.
3. Try and retell the scene, using only emoji.
4. Bonus: Export your chapter notes and share with a friend to see if they can understand the scene just from your icons!

(*Don't have an emoji keyboard? Try describing the emoji, e.g. "smiley, sun, lipstick, rainbow.") library?"

"I do, actually."

"How is that possible when you're always in my room?"

"Where do you think I sleep?" he asked. And when she looked at him, he was grinning.

Design an infographic

An infographic is a visual or graphic that is used to communicate facts or information.

Look online for examples of infographics. Note how they manage to tell a story through visuals, text, icons, colors, and the placement of these elements.

When you are finished with your book, use a computer program like PowerPoint, Word, or a graphics program OR use paper and drawing or craft tools like markers, stickers, magazine cut-outs, etc. to re-tell the story of the book infographic-style.

Consider:

- What can you tell using just images?
- What can you tell using concise, easy-to-read sections of informational text?
- How can you connect those pieces using arrows, lines, blocks, colors, blank space, or other design elements to show the flow of the story from start to finish and from chapter to chapter?

Stupid, perfect Asian kid.
Bozo. Haghead. Bloody Mary.

Eleanor, follow me down this dark alley, I want to kiss you.

Dear Park, I like you. You have really cute hair.
-Eleanor

YOU'RE MY favorite PERSON OF ALL TIME

He made her feel like more than the sum of her parts.

I DON'T THINK I EVEN BREATHE WHEN WE'RE NOT TOGETHER

JESUS-FUCK. JUST SIT DOWN.

ON break that song into pieces and love them all to death

DON'T BE MAD AT ME. IT DRIVES ME CRAZY.

I'M NEVER MAD AT YOU

YOU MUST JUST BE MAD NEAR ME A LOT.

I love your name. I don't want to cheat myself out of a single syllable

I don't like you. Sometimes I think I live for you

Rainbow Rowell

eleanor & park

Yasminwithane

Nothing before you counts, and I can't imagine an after

YOU MAKE ME FEEL LIKE A CANNIBAL

He is cute. I know. I want to eat his face.

HOLDING ELEANOR'S HAND WAS LIKE HOLDING A BUTTERFLY. OR A HEARTBEAT. LIKE HOLDING SOMETHING COMPLETE, AND COMPLETELY ALIVE.

Eleanor was right. She never looked nice. She looked like art, and art wasn't supposed to look nice; it was supposed to make you feel something

WHY DID YOU WASH YOUR FACE?
BECAUSE I LOOKED WEIRD.
AND YOU THOUGHT YOU COULD WASH IT OFF?

GREETINGS from the land of 10,000 LAKES

I just can't believe that life would give us to each other and then take it back. Life's a bastard.
