

Pride Month

Social Media Copy

Version 1

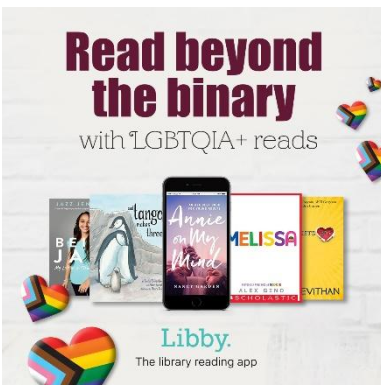

This Pride Month, celebrate the power of stories that reflect the full spectrum of identity. From personal memoirs to storybook fiction, the library is highlighting the LGBTQIA+ community with ebooks and audiobooks that you can borrow for free in the Libby app.

Version 2

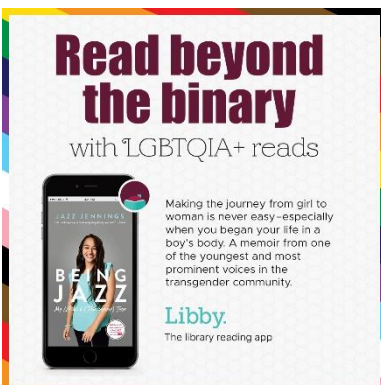

Press play on Pride. Listen to LGBTQIA+ stories anywhere, anytime with the Libby app. Free with your library card!

Descriptive Image Text

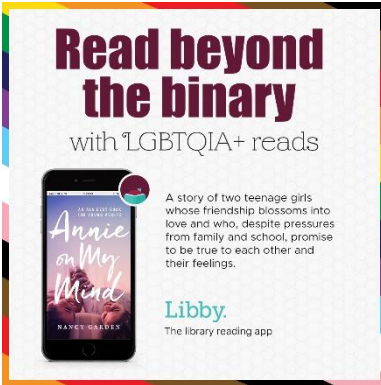

When posting on social media sites like Instagram, Facebook, and Threads, you can embed descriptive image text (also known as alt text) to support people with visual impairments. Use the text below to add descriptive image text to your social media posts.

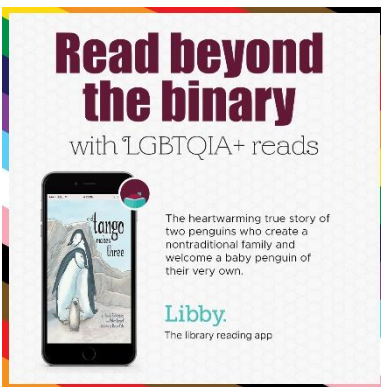

A large maroon headline reads, “Read beyond the binary” with thinner black text underneath reading, “with LGBTQIA+ reads” over a white background with progress flag hearts. Below the text, a centered smartphone displays the book cover Annie on My Mind by Nancy Garden. To the left of the device are the jacket covers for Being Jazz: My Life as a (Transgender) Teen by Jazz Jennings and Tango Makes Three by Justin Richardson. To the right, of the device are jacket cover sfor Melissa by Alex Gino and Boy Meets Boy by David Levithan. At the bottom of the graphic is the Libby watermark and tagline, “The library reading app.”

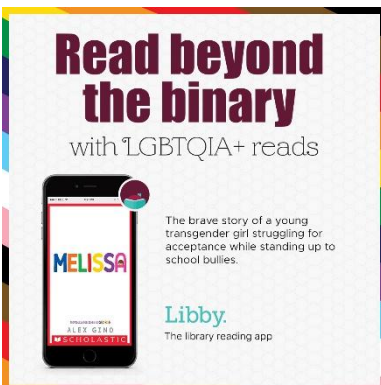

A large maroon headline reads “Read beyond the binary” with thinner black text underneath reading, “with LGBTQIA+ reads” over a white background with a progress flag colored border. Below the text, a smartphone displays the book cover Being Jazz: My Life as a (Transgender) Teen by Jazz Jennings. To the right of the device black text reads, “Making the journey from girl to woman is never easy—especially when you began your life in a boy’s body. A memoir from one of the youngest and most prominent voices in the transgender community.” At the bottom of the graphic is the Libby watermark and tagline, “The library reading app.”

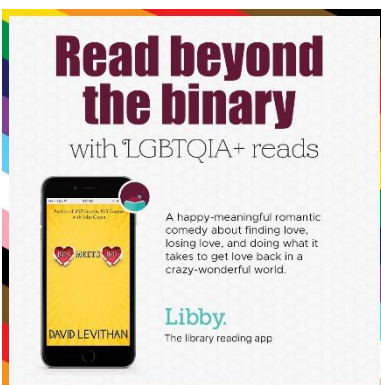

A large maroon headline reads “Read beyond the binary” with thinner black text underneath reading, “with LGBTQIA+ reads” over a white background with a progress flag colored border. Below the text, a smartphone displays the book cover Annie on My Mind by Nancy Garden. To the right of the device black text reads, “A story of two teenage girls whose friendship blossoms into love and who, despite pressures from family and school, promise to be true to each other and their feelings.” At the bottom of the graphic is the Libby watermark and tagline, “The library reading app.”

A large maroon headline reads “Read beyond the binary” with thinner black text underneath reading, “with LGBTQIA+ reads” over a white background with a progress flag colored border. Below the text, a smartphone displays the book cover Tango Makes Three by Justin Richardson. To the right of the device black text reads, “The heartwarming true story of two penguins who create a nontraditional family and welcome a baby penguin of their very own.” At the bottom of the graphic is the Libby watermark and tagline, “The library reading app.”

A large maroon headline reads “Read beyond the binary” with thinner black text underneath reading, “with LGBTQIA+ reads” over a white background with a progress flag colored border. Below the text, a smartphone displays the book cover Melissa by Alex Gino. To the right of the device black text reads, “The brave story of a young transgender girl struggling for acceptance while standing up to school bullies.” At the bottom of the graphic is the Libby watermark and tagline, “The library reading app.”

A large maroon headline reads “Read beyond the binary” with thinner black text underneath reading, “with LGBTQIA+ reads” over a white background with a progress flag colored border. Below the text, a smartphone displays the book cover Boy Meets Boy by David Levithan. To the right of the device black text reads, “A happy-meaningful romantic comedy about finding love, losing love, and doing what it takes to get love back in a crazy-wonderful world.” At the bottom of the graphic is the Libby watermark and tagline, “The library reading app.”

Libby.