Where students read

Digital reading for every student ebooks - audiobooks - read-alongs - magazines - comics - manga

Ignite a love of reading

Reading is the foundation for all learning. It helps develop logic and problem-solving skills, opening new worlds and encouraging curiosity. Children who love to read become lifelong learners.
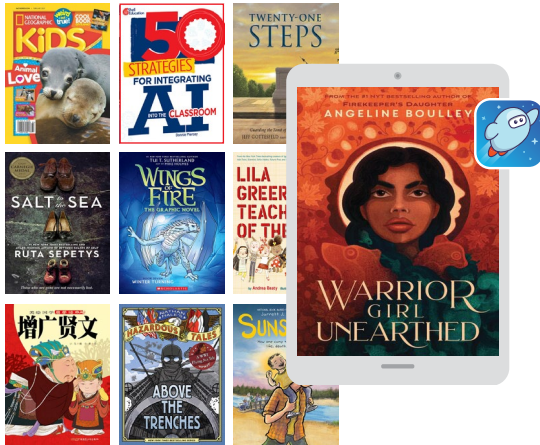

What are the barriers to reading achievement in your district? Budget shortfalls? Time constraints? Inequitable distribution of resources?

Sora is an award-winning K-12 digital reading platform that can help you overcome all of these challenges, no matter where your students are on their reading journeys.

Revitalize your required reading

When it comes to how your students learn, it's easy to stick to business-as-usual. But there's no one-size-fits-all approach to reading success, and you may be missing key tools to help you close the achievement gap.

What if you could reach more readers across your school community, building literacy with not only books students are required to read, but want to read – on the devices they're already using?
