Digital reading myths—busted!

MYTH: Students prefer reading print.

REALITY: Each student is unique and their preferences will vary.

MYTH: Audiobooks aren't “real” reading.

REALITY: Audiobooks support different learning needs and allow reading to move with students throughout the day.

REALITY:

Digital reading practice helps prepare students for life beyond the classroom.

- More digital reading is required for post-secondary education and careers
- Standardized tests are increasingly computerized

Now is the time for students to build deep, sustained digital reading skills.
